[Ashley announces she is going back to school]

Hi guys and welcome back to this video I am so so excited. I am going to be going back to school to get my Master's degree you guys probably think I'm a little crazy because I'm about to pop a baby out and I work full-time but this just makes so much sense in my life right now and I can't wait to share more with you guys.

Before I started my MSN I was almost nine months pregnant. I was really kind of scared. I just didn't know if I was going to be able to balance at all. That's what made FlexPath so amazing is I didn't have to worry about any of that I was able to schedule my own due dates and move things around throughout the entire process.

[Ashley's new courses and new baby]

So I wanted to share something exciting. My little baby girl is here. Honestly, I'm so thankful for the FlexPath format. It's been an easy adjustment adding it into my schedule.

[Ashley's FlexPath Progress]

So I recently finished my third class and I'm almost done with my fourth class.

[Ashley's maternity leave with FlexPath]

I am currently in my sixth class and I was able to complete a couple classes while I was on maternity leave so I really am hoping to finish my MSN this year to use it in my career.

As a nurse who likes to inspire other nurses. I had so many people reach out and say I'm a new mom and I really want to get my Master's degree. It's been nice just be like this support to people to say yeah I did it and you can do it too.

Hands down it was the best experience and I'm so glad I did it. I was able to still be a great mom to be a great co-worker and wife and it added so much to my life.
