First things first my name is Tori Meskin i have been a nurse since 2013. I've worked primarily in the NICU settings I've also been a travel nurse I've worked as a pediatric critical care float nurse within the cvicu pediatric ICU oncology NICU settings as well and something that I thought was really interesting and a big reason why I went back from my master's is the idea of how we're modernizing within the nurse community today and more specifically what I mean by that is the way that we're providing care to patients the way we're communicating with families using technology moving things forward and really using nursing to forward the profession of healthcare in general.

As I said earlier I just finished my second class which went super smoothly my first class I had to adjust the dates a little bit because I was picking up more shifts at the bedside this one I was able to hit the deadlines that I made for myself which felt really good. I love the idea of modernizing healthcare, meeting patients where they're at, providing resources to families getting innovative with the way that we're doing things I think it's really important for us to lead in that way as nurses in the healthcare field it was also really important for me to find a program that fit my lifestyle I am a working nurse I'm a wife I'm a podcaster blogger and so for me that was really essential to find something that fits my lifestyle so I can pursue my master's of science in nursing.

And moreover to advance the nursing profession forward I just see a huge push for this modern day healthcare is evolving there's so many things going on. I love it i think that it's so important to be here and to be able to evolve with this rapidly changing healthcare system to be able to push us forward to be able to highlight the amazing things going on to use evidence-based practice. Overall, I could not say enough great things about this program and this program has offered me a unique modern day tailored approach to how I learn as a nurse and also as a student overall I could not say enough great things about this program at Capella has truly offered me the opportunity to advance my degree and to contribute to all the amazing things going on here in the healthcare space in a new way. I'm very thrilled to be a Capella sponsored student if you guys have any specific questions about the program how it's going let me know below I want to hear from you guys. I just finished my second class so I'm very thrilled about this.
